Dear Parents,

While our weekly ArtReach Classes are taking a hiatus, creativity cannot be stopped! As you know, the arts are crucial to learning! Students with access to arts education: score higher SATs, obtain higher GPAs, and experience lower drop out rates. Art also improves critical thinking and math skills. Now we can bring our art program to you. ArtReach (in a box) will be available beginning in November. Each box will have the equivalent of 3-4 complete projects or lessons, (similar to in-class learning) and full instructions. The boxes are age and gender neutral and suggested age range is 6 years (with help) and up! The first ArtReach (in-a-box) will be available mid-November.

Your boxes will be created by Wassenberg staff; Hope Wallace and Matt Temple, both artists/designers/instructors. Matt graduated from The Art Institute of Pittsburgh with a degree in Computer Animation/Multimedia and Defiance College where he received a BFA in Fine Art. Hope attended Defiance College and received a BFA in Fine Art & Graphic Design. Prior to working at the Wassenberg, she held positions such as toy designer for Ohio Art, a graphic designer for Sauder Woodworking, an art director, a college instructor and commercial giftware designer.

What's even better? The cost for ArtReach (in a box) is less expensive than in-class. Each box runs $25 per month. Shipping is available for an added fee. Limited, need-based scholarships are available, please inquire. A sign up form is provided on the next page.

We think you will have as much fun with your ArtReach (in a box) as we have fun making them! Check out the pictures of typical projects on the other side of this page. If you have any questions or require assistance please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

Hope Wallace
